Skype Web SDK - Style Guidelines

These Guidelines set out how third parties may use or otherwise refer to trade marks, service marks, trade names, signs, logos, icons, slogans, banners, screen shots of the Skype user interface, trade dress, links, sounds and other brand features belonging to Skype (the “Skype Brand Elements”). Usage of the Skype Web SDK is subject to this style guide. Usage of the Skype Web SDK is also subject to the Skype Brand Guidelines: <http://www.skype.com/en/legal/brand-guidelines/>

At Skype, our reputation and brand are extremely important to us. We want our customers to have a safe and secure experience with our communications platform products and we need to ensure that we protect our reputation and brand accordingly. The Skype Brand Elements are valuable assets to us and are protected by applicable trade mark, copyright and other intellectual property laws.

Skype reserves the right to modify these Guidelines at any time. Skype also reserves the right to withdraw permission for or otherwise prohibit your use of the Skype Brand Elements if such use does not conform to these Guidelines and other terms we set from time to time. Skype will not be liable in relation to any loss/damage caused by modification of these Guidelines.

YOU EXPRESSLY ACKNOWLEDGE THAT YOU HAVE READ THESE SKYPE TRADE MARK GUIDELINES AND UNDERSTAND AND ACCEPT THE RIGHTS, OBLIGATIONS, TERMS AND CONDITIONS SET FORTH HEREIN. BY USING ANY OF THE SKYPE BRAND ELEMENTS, YOU EXPRESSLY CONSENT TO BE BOUND BY THESE TERMS AND CONDITIONS.

Contact List

The Contact List shows the user's contacts. There are 3 types of contact lists: rich, standard, and indicator only. The rich experience shows a large avatar, status and mood message. The standard version shows a medium avatar, status, and mood message. The indicator only experience shows only the contact's status and name.
